The Reading Club with sorrow bends
at losing one of its dear
friends,
The fair-haired Gen far west
will go,
Where there is neither rain
nor snow:
A link between that place
and this Is what we would contrive
to fix;
And so, the book "Imperial City"
We will present with love
and pity
That she may read it in the West

While we in Bellefonte do our best
To read it, too, in spite of tears
That will flow for her, for years + years!

Women You Know

By Winifred B. Shallcross.

Under large letters reading "Bingo Every Saturday Night" you saw this week a collection of tiny garments in the windows of the former A. and P. store. Just in case you connected this show with the Bellefonte firemen in any way, let us hope that you read the placard telling that the display represented the donations of 220 generous women to the Needlework Guild. And being so accustomed to seeing antiquated lamp shades and outmoded lace evening dresses in these same windows (those forerunners of the ubiquitous rummage sale, no doubt you were impressed with the fact that once a year absolutely new and sometimes handmade garments are given for distribution among the needy. Certainly the appropriateness of the gifts proves the alertness of Bellefonte and Pleasant Gap donors to approaching winter weather and a probable crop of new babies.

When told of the plan to display the donations Mrs. Wilkinson is quoted as saying: "It is good that you decided to put them in the window, for now the You-Know-Who's can come up to town and decide just what they want." But it is not going to be done that way. The nurses, Miss Bertha Rimmey, of the Red Cross; Miss Daise Keichline, of the schools, and Miss Mary Slegal, of the State, will come to the home of the president, Mrs. W. Fred Reynolds, and choose those things that they know are necessary for families that they believe to be deserving.

It was perhaps inspirational on the part of the former Needlework Guild officers, headed by Mrs. W. Harrison Walker, when they asked the Reading Club to take over the job that they had performed so conscientiously over a period of years. For it gave the club a reason for existence, other than being the purely social affair and tea party that it started as. It heretofore had existed primarily for the purpose of darning family stockings, and each other, while some less industrious membe read aloud. But the Needlework Guild idea took firm roots at once. With vigor the new president, Grace Reynolds, went to work, organized the club into a directorate, lined us up for action, revised and added to lists of contributors, made us sort and classify donations, and firmly marched a few unwilling workers down to the Brockerhoff corner with suit boxes full of display goods.

Sine 1933 the members of the Reading Club have been telling each other the truth about each other. If your slip sticks out or your hair looks funny someone is sure to tell you about it. If you mispronounce the same word three times a chorus ifornia and back. During her abscence Mrs. Rebekah Valentine Mull was elected. Betty Gast was the first to go, when her husband was transferred to Williamsport.

The Reading Club startel out with ambition. The first book tackled was "Anthony Adverse." Whether because it was the first or because it really deserved popularity, it is the only book that everyone in the club has liked. They agree to disagree on almost everything they read. Some like historical novels; some favor biographies. Deborah wants a book with a happy ending. Janet likes stories of typical American families. Books like "Kitty Foyle" are to some just gay tales of modern while some less industrious membe read aloud. But the Needlework Guild idea took firm roots at once. With vigor the new president, Grace Reynolds, went to work, organized the club into a directorate, lined us up for action, revised and added to lists of contributors, made us sort and classify donations, and firmly marched a few unwilling workers down to the Brockerhoff corner with suit boxes full of display goods.

Sine 1933 the members of the Reading Club have been telling each other the truth about each other. If your slip sticks out or your hair looks funny someone is sure to tell you about it. If you mispronounce the same word three times a chorus of voices will offer correction. Such words as "Quay," known to the Reading Club in such varying forms as "key," "kay," and "kway," can stir up a storm of protest and argument, a search for dictionaries, a discussion as to which dictionary belonging to whom may have the accepted pronunciation, and a final denial by the offending reader that she mispronounced it in the first place.

While the reading moves along, you can see heads close together comparing knitting stitches or hand smocking. In the latter art no one can beat Janet Denithorne; as to the former, Grace Reynolds can put anyone's stitches on the needle for any type of garment and with any method. Nora Quigley sews a delicate embroidered initial on one of a dozen linen handkerchiefs that Hugh will get for Christmas. Catherine Love will unearth from her roomy bag bits of economically hoarded yarn or lengths of silk, from which she fashions remarkable garments to wear on the golf course. Deborah Valentine always has a large bag bursting with Dick's undershirts and socks. We wonder how he can wear so much in one week.

The Reading Club was organized by Mrs. Hugh Quigley. One afternoon she invited twelve of us to bring our sewing and come around. So we went around because no matter what was about to happen to us, we wanted to be in on the ground floor. Then she told about the reading club that her mother had belonged to in Lancaster as far back as 1892, and how, as members resigned or moved away, new ones took their places. She said last Sunday that the club is still going strong, for Mrs. William Keller, wife of the Judge and sister-in-law of Mrs. Harry Keller, told her so.

The charter members of the Bellefonte group were Mrs. Quigley, Mrs. Paul Sheffer, Jr., Mrs. John Love, Miss Catherine Love, Mrs. W. R. Cliffe, Mrs. Fred Warner, Mrs. George Denithorne, Mrs. Robert S. Walker, Mrs. S. M. Shallcross, Mrs. James Craig, Mrs. Deborah Valentine, Mrs. W. Fred Reynolds, at that time Miss Grace Cook, and Mrs. Stewart Gast. Olive Cliffe moved away and Mrs. W. W. Sieg took her place. Genevieve Walker went to California and back. During her abscence Mrs. Rebekah Valentine Mull was elected. Betty Gast was the first to go, when her husband was transferred to Williamsport.

The Reading Club startel out with ambition. The first book tackled was "Anthony Adverse." Whether because it was the first or because it really deserved popularity, it is the only book that everyone in the club has liked. They agree to disagree on almost everything they read. Some like historical novels; some favor biographies. Deborah wants a book with a happy ending. Janet likes stories of typical American families. Books like "Kitty Foyle" are to some just gay tales of modern youth whereas to others they are a sign of modern decadence. "Seven Pillars of Wisdom" left so many of them cold that interest in it simply froze to death after four chapters. "The Nutmeg Tree," "Listen, the Wind," and a half dozen or so detective novels seemed to cause less difference of opinion than almost anything else.

In all, the Reading Club in seven years has encompassed 50 books and a scattering of short stories. And let us draw a veil over the dozens upon dozens of sandwiches, quarts and quarts of tea, and layers upon layer of devils food cake that those healthy women have put below the belt. Let us remember that with each argument and heated discussion their understanding and affection for each other grows, and that at last they have a real project to keep them active for the rest of their natural lives, the Needlework Guild.

To Winifred—

As a sign of our affection
We give to you this slip,
With hopes for its perfection
May it never, never rip!

But if it does begin to go,
Just send it back to us.
On Thursday afternoon, you know,
We'll fix it without fuss.

We'll think of you, and not forget
How well you always read to us;
And maybe you will see us yet
Some day, get off that Bryn Mawr bus!

To Reading Club we go
Chatting excitedly, to and fro;
"Why dear! can you tell me! did any one say!
Which one of our friends has a birthday
today!"

Why Thora, Many happy returns!
from Martha.

July 7. 1949.
